

You are taking part in a research project about the experience of the Generation Z, what it is like to grow up with tech, and how you view technology as a whole. This interview will be conducted orally over Zoom via thirteen questions.

The recording of your interview, photograph(s), and video of you will be archived for use in this project. Each story will be parsed down into a couple summarizing paragraphs with some use of audio quotation. I am happy to provide you with any materials I collect today.

This project collects personal identifying information about you. I am bound to respect your wishes to have your identity acknowledged or kept confidential.

By participating in this project, some aspects of your life may be published online and in the book.

The benefit of participating in this project is two fold: a) your history is recorded for future generations and your family b) your perspective of the unfolding technology and how it affects our culture will have a wide impact.

You may opt out of the project at any time, and request any materials about you be destroyed.

You may choose not to answer any question I ask, and also may elaborate on any topic you feel relevant.

You will be asked for your address during the interview. Your address will be used ONLY for follow-up from me. You will be mailed information about the project, how to reach me, and what of your interview has been used.

You will be left with my information so you can contact me if need be.

If you are a minor please have your parent / guardian present during the interview.
